

police custody on suspicion of drunken driving and motor vehicle homicide as soon as he was discharged from the hospital. Muldoon said the arrest could take place as early as Sunday night or 1987 Jetta had been driving in the right lane when it passed a truck on the left and then attempted to return to the right lane. The Jetta did not stop in been contacted, was declared dead at the scene.

Neither man appeared to have been wearing a seat belt, Muldoon said.

Congressman Surprised at Life on Hill

BY FRED MOGUL
WORLD-HERALD STAFF WRITER

As frustrating as the political process is, Capitol Hill is a surprisingly spiritual place where elected representatives really do vote their conscience and government slowly, steadily progresses toward the good, a California congressman told an Omaha audience Sunday.

Walter Capps, a first-term Democrat from California, commented on some of the differences between his work as the chairman of the religious studies department at the University of California at Santa Barbara and his work as a politician. There have been little changes, like getting used to parliamentary language and ingratiating taps on the arm by fellow congressmen, but Capps has been delighted to find that political life can be at times more intellectual than academic life and, in a way, less "political."

"What goes on on campus is far less forthright and candid than what goes on in Congress," Capps said. "Politics in Congress is easier. There are fewer hidden agendas."

An Omaha native, Capps was in town for a family reunion and the 45th reunion of his class from Benson High School. He also was invited to give the fourth annual Markoe-DePorres Social Justice Lecture at Creighton University. The series honors the Rev. John Markoe, a Creighton professor who founded the DePorres club to fight racial injustice.

If the agendas are less hidden in Congress, that doesn't mean they don't exist. Capps said he understood why Americans are so frustrated at the chronic gridlock in the political process.

Heartbroken (C) The Performance Savings Account

A First Treasury Fund from First Treasury Fund earns a tiered interest rate and offers the convenience of 12 withdrawals a month. All this and more are part of the realization of your dreams. Call 341-RATE (7283) or stop by any of our 18 convenient locations to find out how all this can be yours.

With a First Treasury Fund, you can dry your eyes knowing you'll get easy access to your money, plus you'll get a great interest rate.

AFRAID OF THE DENTIST! Come to us — We Cater to Cowards!

Dentures
Both Upper & Lower
Starting at $319.00

FREE DENTURE CONSULTATION

Call Us At 393-1108

IV Sedation — Twilight Sleep Available

$1500
DENTAL
CHECK-UP & CLEANING*

COMFORT SOFT DENTURES
THE DENTURES WITH THE SOFT SPONGY MOLDABLE

- Free consultation
- Walk-ins & Emergency Patients Accepted
- New Patients Welcome
- Denture Repairs & Relines While YOU-WAIT

Saturday & Evening Appointments Available
• Graduate Creighton

