HIGHLIGHTS

THOMPSON CHARGES: Hunter S. Thompson's ex-girlfriend and drug dealer claims he was the result of a witch hunt led by a group of therapists who dealt him a witch hunt. The group consisted of therapists who dealt with him for years and eventually broke up with him. The therapists claimed that Thompson was a witch because his behavior was erratic and unpredictable.

HARD LESSON: Professor Walter Cope, renowned for his work on the history of witchcraft, has found evidence that suggests that witchcraft was a real phenomenon, not just a myth. His findings have led to a reevaluation of the role of witchcraft in history and a renewed interest in the study of witchcraft.

'Rock & Roll Theater' Becomes Charter Member of Brixton Key - Dance Gallery, on its last tour after losing its dance facility, will be housed in the Charter Rock 'n' Roll Theater in Brixton. The theater, which has a seating capacity of 500, was opened in 1991. Describing her decision to open the theater, she stated: "It's a theater that you love." Environmentalist Keith Harvey will be remembered in a two-hour memorial service on May 4 at New York's Cathedral of St. John the Divine. Harvey's funeral arrangements were sent out by the Brixton Foundation, but the event was open to the public. Harvey, who was 63, had been known for his environmental activism and his work on behalf of the environment.

Elephant Love — Barbra Streisand, who has been identified as the co-star of a new film, dressed in an elephant costume, is making a bid to help fight the extinction of the African elephant. In a recent interview, Streisand said: "I think it's important that we do something to help these beautiful animals." The film will be shot in Kenya and the money raised will go toward the conservation of the species.

AIDS Quilt in D.C. Millions of Americans saw the AIDS quilt on the national stage. But Rep. Gerry Studds, D-Mass., was one of many members of Congress who bought the AIDS quilt and displayed it in their offices. The quilt, which was created to raise awareness about AIDS, has been displayed in congressional offices across the country.

Child Care Issue Dominates 'Media Watch' Session

By MICHAEL QUINNENBERG

The Child Care Task Force, which replaced the Task Force on Children and Youth, met last week to discuss the state of children's care in America. Task Force members discussed the need for increased funding for child care services and the importance of providing quality care for all children.

Ball, Book, and Black Tie: An Opportunity to Read

By ANNA LARSEN

The Bay Area Book and Read A Book Festival, which takes place every year in San Francisco, is an opportunity for book lovers to gather and celebrate their love for reading. This year, the festival will be held on April 25 and 26 and will feature readings, workshops, and discussions on a wide range of topics related to literature.
CLASS: Real-Life AIDS Lessons Taught

Continued from E1

AIDS, which has been described as the "epidemic of our time," has reached an ominous stage in the United States and has been designated a public health crisis by the federal government. For this reason, the time is right for everyone to learn about AIDS, regardless of age or occupation. It is crucial that we all have a basic understanding of the disease and how to prevent it.

First Image: Bill White in 1989

These are some of the pictures that were taken of Bill White when he was diagnosed with AIDS in 1989. He was a prominent figure in the gay community and a leader in the fight against AIDS. These images capture the somber reality of living with a life-threatening illness.

After his talk, White spoke with students in the class. Said one student: "We all need to be aware of our own health and take steps to prevent the spread of AIDS. It's important to remember that every person can make a difference.

Second Image: Bill White in 1990

"I have been living with AIDS for over a year now," White said. "I am grateful to have a support system of friends and family who are there for me during this difficult time.

The truth comes to us in many ways... in our own hearts, in the voice of the stranger, the person from whom we least expect to receive the truth.

End of article.